Foreword

We, the nineteen sixty-four PIRATE STAFF, hope that this annual will become one of your most prized possessions.

With our school days coming to their close, we pause to look back upon the friends and the happiness we have had. Our last year has been one filled with many experiences which we shall never forget. The joys, the sorrows, the fun, and the hard work--these are all parts of our memories, that we have tried to preserve at W.H.S.

Appreciation

If you could have only one talent in this world which of all the talents would you choose? I am inclined to believe that a wise person would choose the talent of appreciation.

St. Paul said that charity never faileth. The talent of appreciation would enable one to live the happiest life because it would enable him to get more out of the things which surround life. He would appreciate friends, works of art, the gift of sleep, the satisfaction of doing good work, the smile of a friend, and the refreshment of a summer breeze. If one had the talent of appreciation, he would appreciate everything.

A person who has the talent of appreciation will be appreciated, and to be appreciated is of all the desires of mankind perhaps the strongest, the most moving.

Now, you don't have to stop with merely wishing for this talent. You can have it. How? Start by opening your eyes to the world around you. Look for the good in your friends, not the bad. Begin to be uncritical rather than critical. Practice appreciation, and watch your life unfold and grow majestically.

— Responsibility — Leadership —

This country was founded by our forefathers largely as a result of their quest for freedom. They obtained this freedom and developed a great nation by hard work, sacrifice, assuming responsibility and accepting leadership.

Research reveals that today, only about four percent of our population is willing to accept responsibility and work toward roles of leadership. If we continue to take for granted and drift toward a state of apathy, what could become the fate of a great nation with its freedom?

I definitely believe our schools will have to accept the responsibility of not only stopping this state of apathy but will be the key to our nation's social, technological, economic and moral progress.

In order for our schools to do this gigantic job, I further believe the instruction program of the schools should be designed to develop the individual potentialities of all members of the school population within the framework of its society that values both unity and diversity.

Class History

We, the Seniors of 1964, entered the first grade in the fall of 1952, with great eagerness, boundless energy, and high heads, just as the first graders before us have always done. But perhaps our heads were held just a little higher, because ours was the first class to enter the new elementary school as first-graders.

Of course, with the first grade came our first real contact with measles, mumps, and chicken pox; but these illnesses were only minor elements, considering our excitement and curiosity when Larry Sullivan came to school with a broken arm. He was so-o-o lucky to have that big cast.

Before the end of our first year at school, we had 97 on roll. Thirty-six out of the original ninety-seven are still with us.

When we reached the third grade we really thought we were big. Since we had a hundred in our class, and only two third grade teachers, Mrs. Roberts was asked to help with us. She stayed half the day in Mrs. Hudson's room and the other half in Miss May's. Counting her, our regular teacher, and Mrs. Moore, we had nearly enough teachers to sound like we were in high school!

By the fourth grade, the opposite sex had become just a little more attractive, and Saturday afternoon at the movie was the perfect time to hold hands with the boys.

We encountered new experiences in the fifth grade just as we had in the grades below, but Mrs. Fowler's class got a special treat. We got to taste sassafras tea. The fact that we didn't like it didn't make it any less important, because after all, the other classes hadn't even tried it.

Oh, the sixth grade was just the greatest! We got to elect a maid for homecoming and we were justly proud of Barbara Rose when she went riding by on the queen's float. Since the sixth grade no longer had the traditional picnic at Marion County Lake, we enjoyed our own picnic in Mr. Dillard's pasture. Of course, some few fell into the creek, but we still had a wonderful day. Even these experiences could not compare with our sixth grade graduation. Why, we thought we were so big, that we couldn't even see the underclassmen. Eighty-one graduated with us from elementary school in 1958.

Upon entering the Jr. I year, we encountered such things as: changing classes six times a day, the constant ringing of bells, and taking mid-term exams. We felt as if all our past work had been in vain, and we could just see our dreams slowly fading away. We were all so sure that we would never make it to the eighth grade, that we were surprised when promotion came at the end of a long year.

By the end of the eighth grade, we felt as if we were jinxed because our social studies teacher and our English teacher had both left us in search for greener pastures. We had the task of breaking in two more teachers - Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Alexander.

Our interest in football games, basketball tournaments, banquets, and majorette and cheerleader tryouts had grown to major proportions by the time we reached the ninth and tenth grades. It was in these two years that some of our class began to date or to go steady. A few married. Of course, to most of us getting our driving licenses was far more momentous than getting married.

We thought we had been busy up until now, but we didn't know what busy was until we reached the eleventh grade and began to sell magazines, to try to organize a chorus group, and to make plans for the Jr.-Sr. Banquet. At the Senior Talent show, we discovered that we had a celebrity in our midst. Larry Harris was revealed as Chubby Checker.

Whether it was through a turn of fate, or by our own determination, we don't know, but we finally became Seniors. Nothing was more important than getting our class rings, and ordering our invitations. With all this behind us, we are now frantically making the last of our preparations for college, work, or marriage. Those applications must be sent in, those job applications must be made, those engagement rings must be bought, and last but not least, we must pass our final exams!

Even as we are reminiscing over these humorous events of our schooling, we must gratefully remember the time, work, and effort that our teachers, parents, and fellow students have rendered to us through the years. As we go out into the future not as a class, but as sixty distinct individuals, let us always remember that "Man's flight through life is sustained by the power of his knowledge."

Class Poem

Yesterday, Today, and Tomorrow

Yesterday

The road of childhood I walked,
Unafraid, unbiased, and innocent.
I thought as a child,
I spoke as a child,
Unafraid, unbiased, and innocent.

Today

The trials of manhood I face,
Unsure, insecure, and doubtful.
I've reached that age,
That in-between age,
Unsure, insecure, and doubtful.

Tomorrow

Who knows what road I may take?
It's secret, unknown, and hidden.
I cannot see
What my fate will be
It's secret, unknown, and hidden.

CLASS POET
Hillon Plunkett

Statistician Report

These statistics have been compiled in deepest secrecy and the names have been withheld to protect the guilty!!

The average girl's height is 5'5", the average boy's height is 5'10".

As you can tell most of our girls are overweight since the average is 112 pounds, and the average boy weighs a measly 156 pounds.

Our class seems to have fairly small sized boats--the girl's average size is 7; the boy's 8.

Our girls' average age is 17; the boys' is 18.

Out of the class there are 7 green, 5 blue, 2 hazel, and 5 brown-eyed girls. Eight boys have green eyes, 11 blue, and 12 brown. Only one senior has two different colors of eyes and that's because she broke one of her contacts.

The majority of both boys and girls have brown hair.

Fifteen girls are fair-complexioned, 1 medium, 1 freckled, and 2 olive.

Eighteen boys have medium complexions, 10 fair, and 3 dark.

The hobbies and pastimes of the class range from logical ones like watching TV to the unforgettable one's like "spending the night with Clements!"

WLS in Chicago is the favorite radio station, with WVOK running a close second.

The favorite drink of the class is the well-known COKE.

Favorite foods range from pineapple sandwiches to fresh-fried buzzard.

The favorite color of the class is BLUE by a large majority.

Captain Kangaroo and Clutch Cargo are the favorite TV programs by an overwhelming margin.

The very modern '64 class has 32 that use a car for transportation, with only 12 shoe leather express, 6 thumb, and 1 two-wheeler.

The romantic status of the class of '64 is in good running with past senior classes with 7 married, 5 engaged, 5 going steady, 18 steadily going, 17 playing the field, and 33 not interested.

On playing hooky 48% of the class are honest, 34% say they haven't, and 20% plead the Fifth Amendment. 78% of the class own and wear a watch with the rest of us looking at the sun for time.

Thirteen have the cancer stick habit, 8 chew BLOODHOUND, and the rest don't partake.

Twenty-four per cent of the class still use that greasy kid stuff!!

Forty-four per cent of the class have forged excuses, 28% say they haven't, and the rest are still pleading the fifth Amendment.

Twenty-four per cent of the class are still in favor of those repeated missionary journeys to far off lands.

Forty-three Seniors still possess their class rings, with the rest slowly losing them in unknown, secluded spots.

Thirty-four per cent of the class still bite their nails during those tedious moments in English Class.

Forty-six per cent of the seniors claim they are experts on skipping classes.

Seventy per cent of the class don't wear glasses, and are therefore spared the torture of being called "four-eyes."

Eighteen of the girls eat cheese and rat their hair.

Eight per cent of the boys say they don't brush their teeth before going on a date, but they use Gleem every chance they get.

The majority of the class use toilet tissue with GL-70.

All the girls in the class dream of dancing in "Maiden Form." Most of the boys wear "Fruit of the Loom."

Dear Hal,

To me you are the ~~most~~ nicest, sweetest, and most beautiful girl I know. We have had (and always will have) lots of fun. I will never forget the first date I had with you.
I will always remember the night that we shared together and also the night that weren't pleasant for either of us. I hope there won't be many more of those. Like you said, there are nights and things that we have ~~done~~ <sup>done</sup>, we both regret. But I hope they will turn out for the best. I will always remember the good (and bad) night I have spent with you, because ~~it was the best~~. And I hope you will remember the nights that you have spent with me. Know one else means ~~to~~ as much to me as you do and I hope it with some with you, you are to me a very special special friend. May we always ~~be~~ be happy
